
Politico Fair 2022

27.01.2022 - Get to know the EUS chair at Politico's EU studies and Career Fair 2022!

What are the likely consequences of Brexit? Why has the EU struggled with its asylum policy? Are we going to see a "United States of Europe"? How are critical decisions made in Europe today? These and countless other interesting questions are discussed in the European Studies Bachelor's and Master's programmes offered by the Chair of Multilevel Governance in Europe at Otto-von-Guericke University in Magdeburg, Germany. The interdisciplinary courses in the Bachelor program prepare you to look at Europe and the EU from different angles and to grasp its complexity. The courses of study provide you with insights in areas such as political science, cultural studies and economics. The Master program offers an in-depth analysis of policy-making processes in the EU from a political, sociological-economic or cultural-communicative perspective, combining theoretical and applied content.
